This is the harvest season for robberies of every kind. It was discovered yesterday that burglars entered the store of the W. T. Hixson Company, where they made a good haul.

TWO REPUBLICS MAY BUY BANK BUILDING

Deal on for Sale of Rio Grande Building to Insurance Company.

If the deal now pending is consummated, the Two Republics Life Insurance company, which is composed largely of local capital will have the Rio Grande Valley bank building as its general office building. Negotiations are now pending between the officers of the Rio Grande bank and the Two Republics company for the purchase of the seven story bank building. Should the deal be closed the bank will continue in its present quarters on the first floor of the building, a long term lease being one of the considerations in the prospective sale.

The proposed purchase is to be submitted to the stockholders for their approval before the deal is closed. One of the directors stated Monday that it was probable that the new company would take over the ownership of the building.

H. V. Crockett has been appointed regular clerk in the registry department of the postoffice to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. S. Horton.

CHIHUAHUA IS KEPT WONDERING PLANS OF THE INSURRECTOS

sued by the leaders of those opposed to the present government, possession was taken of several small towns throughout the state, and of which they are still in possession. Coyame, in eastern Chihuahua, and San Andres, San Isidro, Guerrero and Minaca, west of this city, are reported still in possession of the revolutionists. A troop of 50 soldiers has been sent east to Coyame, but no news has been received of them. However, the mails have been coming through from that point regularly. One hundred and fifty soldiers were sent west on the Mexican North Western on the regular passenger train, leaving Monday, the 21st. Through the negligence of some one in authority, passengers were allowed upon this train, which when it reached San Andres, about 50 miles west, was fired into by the revolutionists and four soldiers, including the commanding officer, were killed outright; also a woman with a baby at her breast. One curtain over a window in a coach has 11 bullet holes. The engine pulled out as fast as possible, running as far as Buntillo, where the soldiers disembarked and took quarters in the magnificent ranch houses of the Zuloaga estate, where they now are.

Train Wrecked.
The train from Madera, several hours behind time, attempted to run through San Andres without stopping. About one mile beyond the station a rail had been taken up by the revolutionists to prevent the sending out of any more troops, leaving 15 men and the station agent at San Andres to warn trains coming from the west, as they were desirous to hurt anyone. The train ran through without stopping and was wrecked, but no one hurt.

A prominent American railroad contractor, accompanied by the brakeman, went over to the little town of San Andres, two and a half miles away, to ask permission to buy food for the people on the train and also to ask permission to repair the telegraph line to Chihuahua, that a train might be asked for to take the people in. The leader of the insurrectos expressed great regret at the derailment of the train, gave them breakfast and sent food over to the people on the train. He also took men for the purpose of getting the train back on the track, if possible, and repairing the telegraph line. It was found impossible to put the train on the track, but the wires were repaired and a train sent out from Chihuahua, and all passengers arrived safely Tuesday evening.

Bullion Not Molested.
On this train were several shipments of bullion from the mines and several shipments of money, none of which were molested, but brought safely to town on the relief train. Mexican passengers were searched for arms, but no foreigners, of whom there were a number on the train, were molested in any way. The leader repeatedly expressed regret that the train should have been delayed, and notified all foreigners they need have no hesitations in pursuing their usual avocations. The railroad authorities were notified that their trains would not be molested, except those in government service, transporting troops or munitions of war; that it was not their desire in any way to interfere with the business of either foreigners or non-combatants of their own people.

Insurrectos Not Robbers.
The insurrectos seem to have a well concerted plan for gaining control of the government and insuring the protection of all vested interests, particularly those of foreigners. They are mostly small land owners and farmers, who, in the towns of which they have possession, have appointed the proper authorities, permit no looting or riotous conduct, and are giving receipts for such arms, munitions and provisions which they take for their cause. Under no consideration do they take arms or provisions from foreigners, except in the case of dynamite taken from C. Jungk of Minaca.

SITUATION INTENSE AROUND TORREON

Some Say Army Is Infected by Rebellion—High Class Insurrectos.

Torreón, Mexico, Nov. 28.—The situation here is intense and one of subdued excitement among all classes. No fear is felt for foreigners or their property from either side. Reports of encounters of the troops with armed revolutionists are current here from various places. One story is to the effect that 80 troops were killed east of Lerdo—and another encounter is reported at San Antonio ranch, south of Torreón. Rurales, cavalry and infantry are marching back and forth from the towns of Lerdo, Gomez and Torreón, but are not reaching far into the country.

28 Are Killed.
The fighting at Gomez and Lerdo the first of the week, from the best information, resulted in 28 deaths and many wounded, most of whom are concealed by their friends to avoid capture by troops. The entire community, foreign and domestic—95 percent at least—is in full accord with the principles of the insurrectos and give it sympathy and moral support and, in many instances active help.

The insurrectos at Gomez were composed almost entirely of men from 25 to 40 years of age, and were broad men, street car employees, small land owners and workmen from the factories and shops in Gomez. They were not bandits but men of respectable standing in the class to which they belong.

Insurrectos of Good Class.
The high class of these people is most significant and how and where these men secured the arms for six or seven hundred men and shows the sympathy and perhaps secret activity of the substantial people of the community. The Lavins, a family of large land owners, are reported to have purchased arms and armed their workmen to defend their property, and these men and arms were used by and are now in the possession of the insurrectos out in the hills, it is declared.

Is Army Infected?
The trouble has infected the constabulary and army to some extent and it is not improbable that if the insurrectos gain any control of any section the army will be greatly weakened by desertions. From reliable parties, the statement is made that 25 soldiers and officers have been arrested and, in the face of the vehement denial of governor Escan-don, it is declared that six lieutenants have been executed at Gomez for treason.

Troops Active.
Rumors are rife as to the movement of troops throughout the country and some of movements show that the government is neither vacillatory in its plans or is trying to put down the rebellion merely by displaying the troops in the disturbed centers. Last Thursday 500 troops—infantry and artillery—reached Parral, were unloaded and paraded the city and that night loaded on a train and pulled to Gomez.

On Friday several cars of troops followed behind the passenger train, stopping at Gomez and another train of 500 troops, disembarked from Parral, reached Gomez, making about 1500 troops in this section.

CANANEA DENIES A LOT OF RUMORS

No Soldiers Rushing About in That Region and All Is Quiet.

Cananea, Mexico, Nov. 28.—There has not been any excitement here recently owing to the insurrection. There have not been any more soldiers sent here, as they were not necessary. As for soldiers being sent from here, only about 40 were sent to Naco 10 days ago, and since then no more have been sent. Three soldiers went to Naco yesterday from Nogales, to accompany the mail company, and that started another story about additional soldiers being sent to the border town. There have been no soldiers moved to Augua Prieta, opposite Douglas, as reported, unless they used airplanes, as trains from this section have not carried any.

The town is strictly on its good behavior and there has not been any act committed which could be interpreted to mean trouble on a rebellious scale.

The officers are watching every move of known anti-Diaz men and so far nothing suspicious has been seen in their actions.

There is no truth in the rumor that Mexicans are not permitted to cross the international boundary line to the states from here. They can go and come at pleasure.

U. S. CAVALRY ON BORDER AT DOUGLAS

Gen. Thomas Goes to Confer With Gen. Torres on Situation.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 28.—For the first time since the campaign resulting in the capture of Geronimo, United States cavalry squadrons are stationed on the border here. Two troops of the Eighth cavalry arrived yesterday. Gen. Thomas left this morning for Naco, where he will confer with Gen. Torres on the situation. It is probable that the cavalry now here will be stationed at the San Simón valley, east of Douglas. Passengers out of Mexico say there is a heavy movement of troops toward northern Sonora and Chihuahua, indicating that the Mexico government is striving to concentrate its forces to surround Madero west of Monclova.

PARRAL MAN STATES SOME FACTS ABOUT THE TROUBLE.

Parral, Chih., Mex., Nov. 25, Editor El Paso Herald:
I have in hand your paper of today and refer to an article therein entitled "Parral Not Expecting Attack." The person who wrote this article probably did not know that the town was better defended than he described. He did not mention the city police force, neither about 100 men who rushed with buildings to protect the official building.

Speaking about the "Rifle club," he does not seem to know that more than the third part of all the members are foreigners, among whom are two American citizens. It is a fact that some of the members were killed for protection and eight responded. The rest of the members were all without exception under arms protecting their own interests.

The loss of life is 13, all told, one American being dead and one, J. W. Story, wounded and under medical treatment.

The town is under the protection of the government troops and no further trouble is expected. All the business houses are open and doing business as usual. E. Luser.

BURGLARS ENTER STORE AND STUDIO

Timely Arrival of Special Officer Probably Prevents a Third Burglary.

Jewelry valued at over $700 was taken from the Hixson jewelry store in the Roberts-Banner building, corner Mesa avenue and Mills street, some time Saturday night. Entrance to the establishment was effected through a transom over the rear door, which opens into the hall.

The stolen jewelry consists of a number of watches, rings, bags, gold match safes and other holiday goods. The loss may approximate $1000, according to the statement of Mr. Hixson. The articles already missed total over the $700 mark.

Studio Entered.
The Feldman studio on San Antonio street also lost merchandise valued at $100 Saturday night. Goods taken consists of kodaks and safety razors. Entrance to the store was effected through the skylight.

Meets Prevents Robbery.
The arrival of special officer Meers at the Bazaar, 310-312 San Antonio street, prevented another burglary Sunday night. The officer, in making his rounds, found a jimmy in the rear of the show window which stands outside the store. An effort had been made to break the padlock on the door. It is thought the robbers were frightened from the job.

EL PASO HAS A RAFFLES

Either the Original Mr. Raffles or His Counterpart Visited El Paso Saturday Night.

El Paso has been honored time and time again by characters of note, but it is hard to realize that Mr. Raffles would pay El Paso a visit. Yet, such must be the case. This is proved clearly by the burglary of Feldman's Saturday night. Mr. Raffles being a person of discriminating taste chose the Feldman store knowing that only articles of intrinsic value could be secured. While the loss is considerable, Mr. Feldman says he is in a measure repaid, as he feels sure the burglar Saturday night had Christmas gifts of a high character to make, so selected the Feldman establishment to get them the same as any other wise person would do.

HERALD STORY BRINGS MOTHER HEY, LOST SON

Seeing in The Herald that his mother sought him, sixteen-year-old Marion Craig reported to the officials at the union station Saturday night, and will be sent home. Superintendent Martin had received a letter from the mother, Mrs. Natalie Craig, of Centralia, Wash. She offered to pay her son's transportation back home. Young Craig has been washing dishes instead of being a cowboy or a filibuster.

GEN. OAKES DIES: KNOWN IN SOUTHWEST.

Headed Freedman's Bureau at Austin in Reconstruction Days and Fought in Arizona and Mexico.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Gen. James Oakes, who was retired in 1878, after 30 years of active service in the Mexican and civil wars, as well as in Indian uprisings in the southwest, sank unconscious to the pavement yesterday near his home, and died 23 minutes later at a local hospital. Death was caused by heart trouble.

He was born near Limestone, Pa., April 4, 1826, and was educated at the university of Pennsylvania and the United States Military academy. He served for a time in the faculty of the academy, but at the outbreak of the war with Mexico accompanied Gen. Zachary Taylor and was breveted first lieutenant.

He was later assigned to frontier duty against the Indians in northern Arizona, and in 1861 reached the rank of lieutenant colonel in the fourth cavalry. He became colonel of the sixth cavalry that same year and, after distinguished service in the Tennessee and Mississippi campaigns, was made brigadier general March 30, 1865.

At the close of the civil war, he was head of the Freedmen's bureau at Austin, Texas, and later again saw service against the Indians of the southwest. He was retired at his own request on April 25, 1879, and had spent most of his time since in New York, Pittsburg and Washington.

WOULD-BE LINE RIDER FALLS INTO POLICE HANDS.

J. S. Ward, of Arizona, who purposed to recoup his fortune as a result of the recent losses in Mexico by obtaining employment, he said, as a line rider at $10 per day, was arrested Saturday night on Broadway on a charge of drunkenness. When searched at the police station a revolver was found on his person and a charge of that nature was preferred.

El Paso, Texas, Dec. 27th, 1909.

To the Public:
I had been a hard drinker for thirty years when induced by a friend to take the Globe Three Day Cure. In three hours after the first medicine was given me I had no desire to drink, though it was right there in my room. I want to state to all drinking men in El Paso, especially my drinking friends, to take advantage of this opportunity to free themselves from their slavery to alcohol. I do not now feel any nervousness and feel better than I have for twenty years. I am sure that I will never taste whisky again. I am under everlasting obligations to the Globe Three Day treatment for curing me.
